ACTIVITY FOUR: Charles Dickens
Read the information and complete the tasks

Dickens and Poverty
Dickens experienced prison and poverty in his own childhood. In 1824, London, John Dickens was locked in Marshalsea debtor's prison for failing to pay his debts. His son, Charles, aged 11, was sent away to a blacking factory, covering and labelling pots of shoe polish in appalling conditions as well as loneliness and despair. He lived separated from his family, as his younger sister and mother were put in prison with his father. Later, he wrote in a letter with horror: 'No words can describe the secret agony of my soul as I sank into this companionship.... The sense I had of being utterly neglected and hopeless, fired with grief and humiliation, my lonely vulnerability, my hungry misery, and the knowledge they had willingly put me in this situation. I could not bear to think of myself beyond reach of any honourable success.' After three years he was returned to school, but the experience was never forgotten. Dickens lived just nine doors down from the workhouse until 1831, when he was 19 years old.

TASK ONE: SUMMARISE IT	TASK TWO: TRANSFORM IT
Summarise the information in fifty words or fewer.	Transform the information into TWO images. Label your images with quotations.

TASK THREE: CONSIDER IT

- 10E1 - R&J Key quotes for each Act - Aayat.pptx

Teacher's note: Hi Aayat! Fantastic work! Some real depth and insight in your comments for every single quote. The quotes themselves are also very well chosen, representing numerous key ideas and themes from the play. About the only improvement in future could be to zoom in more closely on the writer's methods but these are highly sophisticated explanations regardless. I hope you found working like this straightforward. Well done again! Mr. Camp

You can find your feedback under the uploaded file. It appears as a 'teacher note'.

What do we mean by 'feedback'?

- Sometimes you will receive individual written feedback for completed work.
- Please note that in some cases your teacher will check the entire classes work and then choose to provide whole class feedback as part of the next task.
- This may mean that you do not receive individual written feedback, but the next lesson will address any misconceptions.
- Multiple-choice quizzes / low stake tests may provide instant feedback on incorrect options once you have completed the quiz, this too counts as feed
