

6 WEEK REVISION GUIDE

January Exams

BECKFOOT
UPPER HEATON SCHOOL

Make Each Day Count

When getting ready for exams, it is important to know about an effective way to study. Instead of just studying hard at the last minute, you can make each day count. This means doing a little bit of studying every day. And it is not just about studying – it is also about excellence, integrity, and kindness our school values.

Being excellent does not mean being perfect right away. It means trying your best every day. You can study a little bit every day, like reading a chapter or practicing some problems. This helps you understand things better, and you will remember them longer.

Having integrity is important too. You should be honest with yourself about what you know and what you need to work on. It is okay to not understand something right away. By being honest, you can figure out what you need to focus on and get better at.

Being kind is also a big part of doing well in exams. You should be kind to yourself and take breaks when you need them. It is important to be kind to others too. You can help your friends with their studying, share study tips, and encourage each other. When we are kind to ourselves and others, it makes studying easier and more fun.

So, to do well in GCSE exams, remember to take small steps every day. These things will help you succeed not only in exams but also in life.
